These buffets should serve guests for the time or event we suggest. You can order for any number from eight to 108.

We never want your guests to go short of food. Our buffets are priced for each person and your choice should reflect the number of guests you expect. We accept no responsibility for a shortage of food if more people arrive at your event than the number for whom you've ordered. You can order additional items at the checkout for extra variety or to add a bit more wow factor.

Online bookings and orders only. We accept bookings on a first-come-first-served basis. We get very busy at certain times of year and suggest you don't leave it late to order if your date is important. Someone else may have got there first.

There may be a nominal charge to offset the cost of delivery, which is calculated at the checkout.
